

Lisa R. George, Ph.D

drlisargeorge@gmail.com

SUMMARY

Twenty-six years as a university professor in the Humanities. Published author. Expert in proofreading, editing, style, mechanics (grammar, punctuation, spelling, word usage). Meticulous with a keen eye for detail. Experience in developing content, organization, and evaluation.

SKILLS

- | | |
|---|---|
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ◆ Expertise in all aspects of writing ◆ Deadline-driven ◆ Results-oriented ◆ Client-focused ◆ Client Needs Assessment | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ◆ Google Docs and Microsoft Office ◆ MLA and Chicago Manual of Style ◆ Creative Problem Solving ◆ Highly Qualified and Disciplined |
|---|---|

Experience

Arizona State University, Tempe, AZ

Assistant Professor June 1998 to June 2007

Classical Studies: Ancient Mediterranean Studies. Languages (Ancient Greek and Latin), culture, and history.

- Edited, consulted, and advised on content for student papers, theses, and dissertations
- Performed in-depth research and data collection for use in academic publishing projects
- Worked with well-known publishers and academic journals to criticize and edit manuscripts

Tulane University, New Orleans, LA

Senior Lecturer in Classical Studies July 2007 to August 2013

- Read, edited, and evaluated hundreds of student papers and projects
- Received high evaluations for innovation in teaching and developing new courses

Education

B.A. in English and Latin, 1983

Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, NY

High Honors in English and in Classics

Ph.D in Classical Studies, 1997

Bryn Mawr College, Bryn Mawr, PA

Memberships

Editorial Freelancers Association